NEWPORT

Woman's Sudden Death.—On Tuesday the Deputy Coroner (F. A. Joyce, Esq.) held an inquest at the Congregational School on the body of Sarah Ann Jane Tayler, 50, wife of Mr. William Tayler, general dealer, of 34 Orchard-street, who was found dead on the previous Saturday afternoon in the yard at the back of her home. Inspector H. Sibbeck represented the police.—Deceased's husband said he left home at 7 a.m. on Saturday for Cowes. His wife had intended going with him, but she complained of feeling unwell and remained at home. When he returned at 4.30 p.m. she had been found dead in the yard, which she had been tidying up, work which would have involved the moving of some heavy old iron. Her object was to make a small garden. Mrs. Alice Nicholson, a neighbour, said she saw deceased at her home just before 11 a.m., when she made no complaint of feeling unwell.—William Jackson, junior, hawker, sometimes employed by Mr. Tayler, said that at about 3.30 p.m. on Saturday he called at Mr. Tayler's house, and being unable to make anyone hear, looked through the door and saw deceased lying face downwards, apparently dead, in the yard. Not being able to get in he went for the police. Replying to a juror, the Coroner said he always encouraged people in such circumstances to render all aid they could at once instead of first reporting to the police. That could be carried out after any possible aid had been rendered. In this case he was afraid the poor woman was dead before the witness saw her.—Dr. Thompson said he was called to see the body about 5 o'clock, at which time deceased had been dead two or three hours. He made a post-mortem examination, and found most of the organs in a very congested condition. The pericardium was greatly distended owing to the rupture of an aneurism of the aorta, which would have caused instant death. There was evidently heart mischief of some standing. Any extra exertion would cause the rupture of the aneurism.—The Jury, of whom Mr. H. Hobbs was foreman, returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence and expressed sympathy with the husband.
